

SOIL

People need soil to survive. We grow our plants in soil and build our houses on soil. If we do not use the correct soil, we will not be able to grow our foods.

Soil is also important for animals. Some animals build their houses in the soil. Many animals also eat plants such as cows and sheep that eat grass. If the soil is not looked after, the plants will not grow and the animals will not be able to eat.

There are many different types of soil. We will look at the 3 most important types.
