

INTERRUPTING OR CLARIFYING

DIALOG	INTERRUPTING	CLARIFYING
A: I think July would be the best time. It's very quiet then, isn't it? B: You mean, we don't do too much business then?
A: Could I just say something?
A: In my opinion, we should do it department by department. B: How do you mean exactly?
A: We've contacted two companies, National Transport and Fox Removals. B: Sorry, could I just comment on that, Mark?
A: You know, there's another possibility. We could get our own people to do the moving. B: What? You think our transport department could do the job?
