Reading Comprehension

Hi, I'm Colleen. Today my school is holding a job fair. I'm super excited because I'm hoping that, by the end of the day, I will have decided which job is best for me. One of the fields I'm most interested in checking out today is healthcare. My dad says I should consider an occupation in this field because I'm always watching documentaries about science and medicine.

While I'm not totally certain what I want to do, I do think that it's important to choose a field now. The sooner I choose an occupation, the sooner I'll know which skills I really need to focus on. I know that becoming a doctor or nurse requires a lot more education than just a simple two-year course. However, I really enjoy learning, so that's no problem. Also, I think becoming a doctor would be exciting and challenging, which is why I'm going to the teaching hospital's presentation this afternoon. They have people from all the different healthcare fields presenting. If it turns out that being a doctor isn't the right choice, I might consider becoming a nurse or even a dentist. Whatever I select, it will be helpful if I do it today. I really want to start learning the things I need to in order to get accepted into the best university in my chosen field.
