HOW TO BEHAVE ON AN AIRPLANE

By Being Artsy

Does anyone remember the Golden Rule? It is an easy way to remember to mind your manners. Behaving in a disorderly fashion is no longer tolerated by airport personnel or flight crews on United States air carriers. Since the government has taken over handling irate passengers, this article will focus instead on other 'Do's and Don'ts' associated with proper airplane etiquette.

17

Taking your shoes and socks off and propping your feet on the armrest of the person sitting in front of you because you want to feel more comfortable, is NOT acceptable airplane etiquette. After they get over the shock of strange toes in their personal space, the passenger in front of you may just want to let his or her seat back very hard.

18

While some parents are fortunate to have mind or eye control over their children, the majority of the world is not as lucky. Be creative. Bring things for children to do, such as colouring books or DVDs, to occupy them while travelling. This will allow everyone's nerves to get a break while on board.

19

Airplane lavatories are small, uncomfortable, cesspools, sort of like inflight portal pot-ties. Already, none of us wants to touch anything in there! Please, at least make it easier on our eyes, not to see what you did in there before us. Oh, and could you wipe up the water you splash over the counter and floor with the hand towels the nice airline supplies? Flight Attendants are not janitors. They are there primarily to save your life... should the need arise.

20

Most of us travel in economy class where comfort is more like confinement and roominess is lacking except being able to flex your feet and rotate your neck. Must we fight over the middle armrest? Can we just share it, please?

21

Whistling, waving at, or snapping your fingers at them will probably only get you ignored. Try to use the call bell sparingly. Remember, you do not have a personal butler at your beck and call, but a safety professional to assist you in enjoying your flight.

- A Control your sleep
- B Flush the toilet
- C Be courteous of other people
- D Ask the better chance
- E Use the call bell to signal the flight attendants
- F Control your children
- G Order a special meal
- H Don't take over someone else's space

Task 5

Read the text below. For each empty space (22–26) choose the correct variant (A, B, C, D). Write your answers on the separate answer sheet.

INDIGENOUS PEOPLE

The boreal region is home to many indigenous peoples. Many of them live in forested areas. They are being increasingly confronted with the depletion of the natural resources that they depend on, weak rights of ownership, control and management of their traditional lands and a lack of political power resulting in a loss of traditional knowledge and social disruption.

Industry is increasingly looking at indigenous land as a source of cheap raw material. There is often inadequate legislation to protect them. Resource exploitation such as forestry, mining and hydroelectric development causes environmental and cultural impact: sacred places are degraded, the landscape is destroyed and poisoned, which makes subsistent economy impossible for many communities.

In Europe the indigenous people are the Sámi of northern Scandinavia. Their culture and subsistence is traditionally centred around reindeer herding, fishing and hunting. Reindeer herding, although modernized, is still the core of Sámi culture. However, the Sámi customary right to reindeer herding is being challenged by private forest owners.

In Canada over 80 % of the indigenous communities are located in forested areas. The rigidity with which both the Canadian government and industry have clung to their monopoly over the forest, has impacted negatively on the social, economic and environmental conditions of local aboriginal communities and adjacent forest lands, leading to an increasing number of conflicts on the ground and in the courts.

In Russia, traditional knowledge is slipping away; there is no proper medical care, housing and food. Currently there are 26 distinct indigenous peoples in Siberia, ranging in numbers from under 200 (the Oroks) to as many as 34 000 (the Nenets).

However, many indigenous peoples continue to live in a traditional way. Non-government organizations can help indigenous communities by supporting their land rights and fight against large scale exploitation. But real changes are necessary to force governments to respect indigenous as independent self-governing Nations.

- 22 Many aboriginal settlements can be found _____.
A in the central part of Europe C in the north
B in the south of America D in the west
- 23 Indigenous people face the following problems except _____.
A living in harsh arctic conditions C destroying the natural habitats
B decrease of the raw materials D polluting the lands and forests
- 24 The Sámi are good at _____.
A cutting down trees C breeding the reindeer
B riding the horses D fighting with private forest owners
- 25 Indigenous people in Russia suffer from _____.
A improper medical care C deficiency of food
B lack of housing D all of the above
- 26 The main idea of the text is to _____.
A tell about the life of the indigenous people
B help the aboriginal live in their lands
C attract the reader's attention to their problems
D stop the exploitation of the indigenous people

So Camilla left the house, (33) _____. On she went, until she ended up in a small abandoned hut (34) _____.
