

3. Drag and drop the pictures to correct places corresponding to their dispersal methods.

| WIND                                                                         | WATER                                                                        | ANIMALS                                                                       | EXPLOSION                                                                      |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|    |    |    |    |
|  |  |  |  |

4. Which of these features is unlikely in fruits that are dispersed by water?

- a. Fine hair
- b. Fibrous covering
- c. Lighter fruit
- d. Spongy outer