Frances worked in a senior high school, and her job was to clean the girls' bathroom. Recently, she found some girls started to wear lipstick and would put it on in the bathroom. That was fine, but after they put it on, they would kiss the mirror in the bathroom and leave lipstick marks on the mirror. Every day Frances had to clean the mirror, but the next day, the lipstick marks would be back again. It really gave Frances a headache. "Someone must teach the girls a lesson," said Frances to herself. She went to the girls' teacher, Ms. Lee, and talked about her plan. "That sounds like a great idea. No problem. I will take all the girls in my class to the bathroom then," said Ms. Lee. On that day, Frances didn't clean the mirror.

The next morning, after all the girls entered the bathroom, Frances pointed at the mirror and started talking, "It's very difficult for me to clean these lipstick marks, and why is that? Let me show you." Frances took out a mop, put it in the toilet, and then clean the mirror with it. From that day on, the lipstick marks never came back again.
