The world's forests are being consumed rapidly. Trees are cut down for paper and wood products, for cooking fuel, to clear land for development, and to expand farming areas. The land left behind is stripped not only of its trees, but the plants, animals, and insects that lived in that ecosystem as well. With no plant roots to hold it in place, valuable soil washes away with every rainfall and ends up in the rivers and streams upon which people depend for their water supply. In extreme cases, hundreds or thousands of people lose their homes or perish in landslides when deforested slopes become unstable.

Forests also play an important part in regulating global climate. Trees remove carbon dioxide, a major greenhouse gas, from the atmosphere, while cycling oxygen back into it. When trees are cut down, however, the CO₂ is released again. It is estimated that up to 25% of the total amount of CO₂ going into the atmosphere every year is released from trees being cut and burned. It's clear that protecting the world's forests is an important part of solving the global climate change problem.

IV. Choose the word (A, B, C or D) that best fits the blank space in the following passage. (1.5 pts)

Mercury is the smallest planet in our solar system. It is just a little bigger than Earth's moon. It is the closest planet to the sun, but it is (19) _____ not the hottest. Venus is hotter.

Along with Venus, Earth, and Mars, Mercury is one of the (20) _____ planets. It has a solid surface that is covered with craters. It has a thin atmosphere, and it doesn't have any moons. Mercury likes to (21) _____ things simple.

This small planet spins around slowly compared to Earth, so one day (22) _____ a long time. Mercury takes 59 Earth days to make one full rotation. A year on Mercury goes by fast. Because it's the (23) _____ planet to the sun, it doesn't take very long to go all the way around. It completes one revolution around the sun in just 88 Earth days. If you lived on Mercury, you'd have a birthday every three months!

A day on Mercury is not like a day here on Earth. For us, the sun rises and sets (24) _____ and every day. Because Mercury has a slow spin and short year, it takes a long time for the sun to rise and set there. Mercury only has one sunrise every 180 Earth days! Isn't that weird?
