

CAN / CAN'T

Use “can” to talk about ability. You know how to do something.

- He can play tennis quite well.
- I can speak Italian well.
- My best friend can't swim very well.

|   |     |              |                     |                       |
|---|-----|--------------|---------------------|-----------------------|
|   | 😊   | cancan't | verb simpleform | rest of the sentence. |
| + | She | can          | swim                | very well.            |
| - | We  | can't        | drive               | a motorbike.          |

|   |     |     |                     |                       |                                |
|---|-----|-----|---------------------|-----------------------|--------------------------------|
|   | Can | 😊   | verb simpleform | rest of the sentence? |                                |
| + | Can | she | swim                | very well?            | Yes, she can. / No, she can't. |
| - | Can | we  | drive               | a motorbike?          | Yes, we can. / No, we can't    |

Expressions:

very well (✓✓✓)

well (✓✓)

quite well (✓)

not very well (x)