The struggle among living things for resources.
Material that living things use to survive.
Include all living and non livings that interact in an environment.