

Learning English Through Japan – Undokai

Focus: Vocabulary (Sports), Reading (Comprehension).

PART 1 - Reading

1) Read about Undokai and answer the questions.

In 1874, The Imperial Japanese Naval College held the first sports event. In the following years, more and more public schools across Japan started to hold Sports Days. The main purpose of holding a sports day was to promote the physical development of students. In 1885, Undokai was officially held at Tokyo University, the most prestigious university in Japan which was established in 1877.

Undokai is a Japanese term for Sports Day. It is a traditional annual event that is generally held in spring or fall. On Sports Day, all students participate in a variety of sports activities. This event teaches children about the importance of working together, working hard, and competing for the whole team.
