The letter a says /æ/, if you see a consonant after it, but the letter L changes the letter a sound. We read al as /ɔ:/

all ball tall also almost salt bald

And in these three words the letter L is silent. We read al as /ɔ:/

My cat can call me on the phone.
My cat can call me on her own. But when I call my cat on the phone, she picks up the dog's bone.

I made a picture of a cat and I made the cat a hat. I was mad at the cat so I made his hat too small.
But then I was sorry so I made the cat a ball

I got on top of a tall, tall wall. I was scared that I would fall. So I sat on the wall and wished the wall was small.
