READING

Read the chat room posts giving advice about going to university. Five sentences have been removed. Choose from the sentences A–G the one which fits each gap (1–5). There is one extra sentence which you do not need to use.

The things I wish I'd known...

First of all, that cliché about students being poor... It's true! So my advice is to get a part-time job straightaway – cleaner, shelf-stacker, waitress – it doesn't matter what you do, just pick the job with the highest hourly rate you can find. 0 ☐ G Everybody does it, unless they have super-rich and generous parents. If that's you, forget this advice!

Manuela, 1st year, Economics

Living in a flat is a bit isolating when you don't know anybody so I recommend living in a hall of residence for your first year. 1 ☐ If you turn up to seminars and hand in your work on time, you'll get on well with your professors too. Your university experience is what you make it so you'd better work hard to graduate with honours – but that doesn't necessarily mean you can't play hard too.

Aiden, 2nd year, Media Studies

2 ☐ You're not going to want to live on the same food every day. 3 ☐ In fact, you probably won't have enough money to get fast food very often at all. Plus, in any case, that would have a terrible effect on your health and appearance. So read the instructions on a packet of pasta and practise cooking some before you go.

Ross, 3rd year, Medicine

You might not think about this when you're just starting at uni but it's not only your studies that count towards making an outstanding CV. In my view, joining lots of clubs and societies is a great idea because it shows you're a sociable person with a range of hobbies. 4 ☐ Another good idea is to apply for a job as a Student Ambassador if these exist at your university. You work for the uni, giving presentations and promoting the brand, with the added benefit of getting paid and not having to leave the campus. Finally, try to build a good rapport with your tutor because he's probably going to be giving you a reference when you apply for your first jobs after graduating!

Markus, 2nd year, English and History

Have a good time! Your student years should be the best years of your life. You're doing what you want to do, living independently and making your own choices. I'd only say that going home at 1am isn't a terrible idea. Don't let fear of missing out keep you up too late.

5 ☐

Izzie, 3rd year, Sociology

- A You can give up anything you don't really enjoy but you'll find at least one or two interests and meet new people too.
- B You won't be able to afford to buy microwaveable ready meals all the time or go out for a burger.
- C You're going to need to budget more carefully than you have before.
- D If you leave the door to your room open, you'll make lots of friends.
- E In my experience, you won't miss anything at all and you also won't look as pale and exhausted as your friends at lectures the following day.
- F OK, so it's boring advice but seriously, learn to cook some basic meals.
- G You'll learn to juggle lectures and earning money to survive.
