Personal descriptions

1

Florance

My husband and I are retired and we spend most of our time watching television. I would like to take him to do something that will keep us fit, get us out of the house, have fun together and even be romantic.

2

George

I like to do something serious in my free time, something that makes me think. But I work hard all week, so I want to relax and not have to do anything myself, but just sit there and be entertained in an intelligent way.

3

Conrad

I like to have fun with my daughter at the weekend. She loves adventure and animals but she's only five, so we can't be home too late.

4

Richard

I love discovering new things and I hope to travel around the world one day. I don't mind learning in my free time as long as it's something useful and will help me live abroad.

5

Emma

I'm a student, so I don't have any money but I do have a lot of time. I really like music and learning about people from other countries. I'm into partying and the later I go to bed, the happier I am.

What's on in the city

A

Opera from around the world

They say it's not over until the fat lady sings, and with our night of world-famous opera songs the fat lady doesn't sing for two hours.

Hear Verdi, Mozart, Puccini and Strauss in the beautiful setting of the National Opera House.

A night to experience the best culture the world has to offer.

Read the personal descriptions 1-5. Then look at the advertisements for university courses (A-G). Choose the most suitable course for each person. Write the answers in the table below. Two of the advertisements are not needed.

Personal descriptions

1

Roger

Roger wants to study something that's going to be useful for his career and he wants a career which makes money. He's thinking about becoming a financial advisor or even buying and selling shares. He enjoys reading and is interested in military history, but he'd like to keep this as a hobby. His true talent is money.

2

Tina

Tina wants to go to university and have fun. She's into doing things rather than just reading about them. She's a little bit older than the other students because she spent a few years travelling and living abroad. Tina's teachers told her that she has a talent for painting and she'd like to see if she's good at it.

3

Bill

Bill likes to ask questions such as "who", "what" and "when". He's interested in why the world is in the way it is. He's more into analysing real events and people than in creating something new. He's interested in the past and likes art, although he likes looking at it rather than painting it.

4

Trevor

Trevor loves numbers. His mother says he was born counting. At school, he was top of his class in maths and science. He would like to study something that will help him get a job he will enjoy doing - and that's working with numbers. He's quite shy and doesn't like being with people.

5

Wendy

Wendy got married and had three children after finishing school. She would like to do a course that would help her get back to work. She loves being a mum and having children, but she doesn't want to spend all her time with them. She'd like to work in business that might help her see far-away places one day.

University courses

A

History - BA (Hons)

A course for those who is interested in politics, society and art. The course follows the history of Europe from 900-2000. It teaches the major events, the people who were there and all the key dates.

B

Philosophy - BE (Hons)

This is your chance to study some of the most important thinkers the world has ever known. The course starts with Aristotle (384 BC) and ends with Jean-Paul Sartre (1980). That's over 2,300 years of thinking about the 'big' questions.

Art-BA/MA

This is a course for those people who want to be artists or who are interested in art. Students learn practical techniques for sculpting, oil painting, drawing and photography.

D Teaching-BEd

Do you like children? Would you like to work with them? This is a four-year practical course that will help you become a successful teacher. You can choose Primary 3-11, Secondary 11-16, or Further Education 16-18.

Hotels and Tourism - Diploma

This is a two-year course. Academic qualifications are not as important as hard work and the ability to work well with other people. This may suit slightly older people who wish to have a career change.

Economics & Business Management – BSc (Hons)

Graduates from our course go on to be some of the high-fliers of the British industry and finance. This three-year course teaches students everything from people management to understanding how stock markets work.

Accounting, Audit and Tax - BSc (Hons)

This is a four-year course that welcomes applicants who have strong skills at mathematics. Students can specialise in business and tax accounting with the aim of becoming freelance, self-employed accountants in the future.

Personal descriptions

1

Larry

Larry recently took early retirement from work at the age of sixty. After many years of working in the legal profession as a lawyer, he has saved up a lot of money. The problem is that he's bored with sitting at home alone and wants a new challenge in his life. Maybe he'd like a job where he can do something for someone else.

2

Trudy

Trudy has recently left school. She didn't do very well at school and has no qualifications. She enjoys meeting people and is normally quite happy, unless she has to get up early in the morning. She'd like a job where, if she works hard, she can move up in the company.

3

Pandora

Pandora has just got back from travelling in Australia for three months. She has recently completed a finance degree at Cambridge University. She doesn't want to become a banker or work with numbers but would like to work in business. Perhaps doing something more creative. She loves travelling.

4

Al

Al loves surfing. He's hoping to go surfing in Hawaii for three months after he's finished with his studies. He's looking for a job that doesn't need any qualifications or experience and where he can make some quick money to pay for his dream to become a professional surfer.

5

Maureen

Maureen used to live in Florida where she worked as a hotel manager. She's recently returned to England and is looking for a full-time job. She doesn't mind being really busy or working strange hours as long as the salary is good and she works with people.
