

COMPARATIVE CHART

SHORT STORIES VS PLAYSSCRIPTS

Read the labels drag them and drop them in the correct place. Each label can correspond to a short story (left circle), play script (right circle) or both (intersection of the circles).

It has some characters.

It is a narration of a story.

It is written for the actors and actresses.

It has an introduction, problem, climax, resolution and a conclusion.

It is to be read. It happens in the reader imagination.

It has the title of the play, character list, scene number, scene title and scene

It explains what the actors and actresses do.

It is to be acted. It happens on a stage.

It is written for the readers.