

People who are blind or deaf have a sensory condition where they can not see or hear. Some people also suffer from an inability to feel (anaphia), taste (ageusia) and smell (anosmia) although these are much rarer than a loss of vision or hearing.

USE YOUR SENSES TO DESCRIBE YOUR FAVOURITE FOOD BELOW.

An example has been done for you about a vanilla ice cream in a cone.

- It looks like a fluffy cloud I can hold in my hand.
- It feels cold and sticky and wet.
- It smells sweet and vanillery but cold on my nose - oops.
- It sounds like wood cracking when I bite into the crunchy cone.
- It tastes delicious and cold and sweet. Like summer and winter rolled into one.
