ACTIVITY 1 TOP 6 BEACH CITIES

Read the following texts about 6 BEACH CITIES. For each of the sentences (1-10) choose the correct text (A - F). Each text can be joined to MORE THAN ONE sentence.

A. Honolulu, Hawaii |

Once an idyllic retreat for 19th-century Hawaiian royalty, Honolulu's Waikiki Beach is now packed with resorts, some of them historic like the 1901 Moana Surfrider Hotel. Its calm waters are ideal for inexperienced surfers, but most beachgoers here are happy enjoying the temperate, turquoise blue Pacific and the views of the Diamond Head crater.

B. Nice, France |

Some 35 beaches stretch uninterrupted along Nice's coastline. Don't forget your flip-flops, however, as some of them are covered with small rocks called galets. People who can afford it sunbathe at private beaches, where a day's access costs about 16 euros and often includes a sun lounge; food, towel and parasol are an extra.

C. Rio de Janeiro, Brazil |

Rio has an active beach scene throughout its 25 miles of shoreline, from Copacabana—where bronzed Cariocas, wearing skimpy swimwear and Hawaiians, love to relax walking along the promenade in the shadow of Christ the Redeemer—to the more elegant and classier Ipanema, framed by the Rio skyline and the rocky peaks of Dois Irmãos (Two Brothers).

D. Santa Monica, California |

With 3.5 miles of broad, sandy beaches, a fresh ocean breeze, and a lively atmosphere, Santa Monica has long been a top attraction for the Hollywood set. In the 1920s, movie magnates and starlets partied at Club Casa Del Mar; today, celebrities avoid the paparazzi at the Shutters on the Beach hotel. Featuring an amusement park, aquarium and restaurants, the pier is a landmark for the beach and the city. Join a volleyball game or just chill out watching the Pacific waves crash on the beach!

E. Vancouver, British Columbia |

Canada's most adventurous metropolis is home to ten beaches, from the family-centric Jericho to the clothing-optional Wreck Beach, most of which offer commanding views of the Vancouver skyline and majestic North Shore Mountains. Among them, sporty types prefer Kitsilano, a six-minute drive from downtown, for its free tennis, volleyball and basketball courts, and its super-size heated saltwater pool.

F. Barcelona, Spain |

With lots of famous architectural wonders to see, advanced cuisine restaurants, and buzzing nightlife, Barcelona would be a world-class city even without the eight white-sand beaches on its Mediterranean coastline. Accessible by metro, the nearly mile-long Barceloneta Beach—revitalized in the massive waterfront makeover for the 1992 Olympics—is one of the most popular. Hit the Beach Centre to rent a beach umbrella, chairs, or a bicycle.
