

SUPERSTITIONS AROUND THE WORLD and the FIRST CONDITIONAL

1) Write the verbs in the correct form.

In Finland, if a person (kill) a spider, it (rain) the next day.

In Portugal, if you (walk) backwards, you (show) the devil your path.

In South Korea, if a person (sleep) with a fan on, it (cause) his/her death.

In Spain and some countries, if you (sweep) over a single woman's feet, she (not get) married in her life.

In Japan, if a white snake (appear) in your dream, something very lucky (happen) to you.

2) Match the first part with the second part to SAY the correct superstition. Write the correct letter next to the first part.

In Colombia, if a dark butterfly, usually a moth, enters your house,

In Rwanda, if a woman eats goats's meat,

In Brazil and some other countries if a woman leaves her handbag on the floor,

In Canada, if people pick up blackberries after October 11th

In France, if you step on dog poop with your left foot,

- A) they will have bad luck because those late fruits belong to the devil.
- B) she will grow a beard.
- C) you will have good luck.
- D) she will become poor.
- E) someone close to your family will die.

GOOD LUCK!

