Disney's Animal Kingdom Park

Legoland California Resort

Orlando, Florida

Carlsbad, California

This Disney Park takes the animal theme and runs with it - we have 1,700 animals of 250 species. It's like a zoo, a safari, an amusement park and, well, Disney World, all in one.

The obsession with Legos lives large at this building-block-inspired resort. It's part amusement park, part science center, part look-what-we-built-with-Legos exhibit.

For little kids: Head with little kids to the Affection Station petting zoo and see what animal encounters are happening at the Conservation Station.

For little kids: Head to Fun Town with your preschoolers, where they can play with Duplos, drive a mini car, and see how Legos are made.

For big kids: Thrill seekers will revel in the

For big kids: The Land of Adventure has

Kali River Rapids, Dinosaur, and Expedition Everest rides. several exciting rides. Big kids will probably also want to spend a day at the water park.

Walt Disney World's Magic Kingdom Park

Orlando, Florida

Magic Kingdom is massive and a day there can be exhausting, but there's really something for everyone - and the characters and stories that inspired the attractions have a soft spot in our hearts, which is why families from all over the world flock there every year.

For little kids: Take a boat ride and sing the infectious song at 'it's a small world' tour Mickey and Minnie's homes.

For big kids: Don't miss favorite coasters Space Mountain and Splash Mountain.
