The Roman Coliseum

The Importance of Shapes in Architecture and Engineering

Most students learn about geometric shapes in school. But architects also need to understand them. In fact, those basic shapes appear in many historical buildings. For example, look at the Roman Coliseum.

Although most buildings have a rectangle or square shape, the Coliseum is an ellipse, or oval. It features many arches supported by columns, which are cylinders. They provide support.

Some parts of the Coliseum have extended arches, or vaults, which form prisms. These hallways have high ceilings in the shape of a semi-circle.

These shapes are in modern architecture, too. They add support, structure, and style, all at the same time.

1. Read and choose:

1) This blog mainly about?

- C square
- D arch

3) Which shape is NOT used in the Coliseum?

- A a semi-circle
- B an oval

- 2.ellipse
- 3.rectangle
- 4.geometric
- 5.prism
- 6.vault

3.a) Look at the following words and write: (n.) NOUN (sustantivo)
(ad.) ADVERBS(v.) - VERB (verbo) - (adj.) ADJECTIVE (adjetivo)

Example: study (Verb)

- a. shapes

- 2 AN ADJECTIVE / ADVERB / VERB describes a verb, an adjective or another adverb
- 3 ADJECTIVE / VERB / ADJECTIVE is a word that describes a noun or a pronoun.
- 4 NOUN / VERB / ADJECTIVE is a word used to name a person, animal, place, thing, and abstract idea.

4. Read the text again and classify the underline words into:

Nouns	Adjective	Verbs	Adverbs
- buildings

5. Google the following buildings, choose 5 of them and make a draw (Esta tarea se hace en la carpeta ya que deben dibujar 5 de estos edificios que elijan):

The Gherkin (London) The Louvre (Paris) Air Force Academy Chapel (Colorado, U.S.)
Nakagin Capsule Tower (Tokyo) Dome House (Florida, U.S.) The Crooked House (Poland)
Cubic Houses (Rotterdam, Netherlands) Dancing Building (Prague)
Ryugyong Hotel (North Korea) The National Library (Minsk, Belarus) Fuji television building (Tokyo, Japan)
