

Spanish Unit 1 & 2

work sheet

Use your knowledge about the Spanish alphabet, greetings, definite and indefinite articles to correctly answer the following.

Greetings-Saludos:

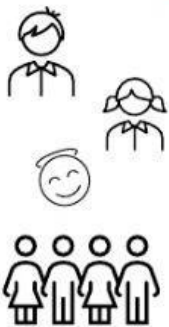

1. It's 7am and you run into your favorite teacher at the gas station on your way to school... " Hola y _____ Señor/Señora _____, how are you?"
2. _____ amigo ¿cómo estas? It's getting late, I'll see you tomorrow"
3. After 12pm you say, _____.

Spanish Alphabet-El abecedario

1. How many letters are in the Spanish alphabet? _____
2. Las 5 vocales en español son: _____
3. T/F: The sound the Spanish vowels make changes depending on the word they are in: _____
4. T/F: "H" en Español has a name but makes no sound. _____
5. What sound does this letter make: ñ : _____

Definite or Indefinite article, Gender and Number

- | | |
|---------|----------|
| 1. El | 1. _____ |
| 2. Una | 2. _____ |
| 3. Las | 3. _____ |
| 4. Un | 4. _____ |
| 5. La | 5. _____ |
| 6. Los | 6. _____ |
| 7. Unas | 7. _____ |
| 8. Unos | 8. _____ |

Let's write a mystery story together...

Read the story in English and then fill in the correct Spanish translation in the blanks below.

Saturday mornings always look the same. I awake to the sound of my dad typing madly on the computer. A coffee mug sits on the counter forgotten and cold. There are some notebooks and pens scattered on the desk. He does not look at me when he mutters good morning when I walk across the kitchen.

Something is wrong. It is 11am and the house is oddly quiet. How did I oversleep? I open the door and see a map hanging on the wall. A brand-new backpack stares at me from across the room. I walk over and spot something, no, someone standing in the corner of the room. I sprint, grab the backpack, the map, and make it back just in time to lock my door.

My heart is racing. I clutch the backpack against my chest when I notice a sound. A clock is ticking from inside one of the pockets. I hesitate as I open it, reach in and feel the clock wrapped in a piece of paper.

My vision goes blurry as I read what it says...

The man in the room will escort you to an airport outside the city...

He will only allow 5 items to accompany you.

The backpack, the map and the clock are essential.

Hurry.

You will lose precious time once you get here.

-Dad.

"The man in the room will escort you to an airport outside the city...
He will only allow 5 items to accompany you. The backpack, the map and the clock are essential.
Hurry, you will lose precious time once you get here.
-Dad"