Subject: Sunday

Hi Joe,

Are you going to Chris's barbecue next Sunday? I am! The weather's going to be fantastic. At least, that's what the forecast says. I'm leaving at 11:45, so I'll come by and get you if you want. Could you remind me to pick up a gift on the way? I'd like to find something amusing to give him. Maybe he'd like one of those fun t-shirts that you can buy at Chico's.

I'm having an amazing week off work. I'm seeing Tyler tomorrow. We're meeting for lunch around noon.

We're going to try a new Mexican restaurant. It's a small place on Bond Street. People say their carnitas tacos are delicious. After lunch, we're taking the subway to 81st Street. Tyler really wants to visit the Natural History Museum, and I agreed to go with him. Then on Tuesday, Rob and Chris are coming over to help me paint my kitchen. Can you believe that it hasn't been painted in over ten years? I'm planning to buy the paint later today. I think I'll stop to see Dan on the way. Do you want to meet up for a coffee or something? He lives near your office.

On Thursday I'm taking the kids to the zoo. We're going to spend an hour or two at the zoo, and then get some ice cream at Zizzi's on Broadway. I hope Zizzi's is open because the kids will be disappointed if they don't get their favorite chocolate chip ice cream. And so will I! I can't wait! I love zoos, and I love ice cream. I think I'm still a kid, really. 😊

How are you? Are you working all week this week, or do you have some free time? I'll stop by and see you if you're free. If not, I'll see you on Sunday!

Katie

1. Katie is planning to go to Chris's party.

2. Katie and Tyler are going to have lunch at the Natural History Museum.

LOST AND FOUND

Meet Levi. He works at Back Bay Train Station in Boston. He deals with all the things that people lose or find on the trains and in the station every day. We asked Levi a few questions.

Do you like your job?

I love my job. I meet so many people. Just last week, I spoke to over 300 customers. I work 5 days a week, so that was at least 60 people a day. It's terrific to see how grateful people are when you give them back the stuff they lost. One day, in 2005, when I was working at New York's Penn Station, a woman arrived at my office with a big bunch of flowers for me. She just wanted to say thank you.

How do you locate the people who have lost their stuff?

Usually they come to me. They know they've lost, for example, their purse. They come to the office and tell me what they lost. They give me the date and the train they were on. And then I take their contact information. When we find the item, we give them a call.

What do people lose and find most often?

Oh, that's easy! Phones. Phones, phones, phones! Last week, I was looking through some boxes when my coworker asked me how many phones we had. We had 173 phones. I'm not kidding. But, you know, we have on average at least 350 items lost and found a week, everything from keys to laptops to kids' toys.

Why phones?

Well, I guess it's because people keep them in their pockets, and they fall out and drop on the floor. I met this guy the other day. He searched the whole train for his phone. After an hour, he still couldn't find it. Do you want to know where it was? In his pocket!

What's the strangest thing someone's – found on a train?

You're not going to believe this – a wild turkey. I guess the passenger didn't want to take care of it!.

- b) 350

- c) Yes, he does.

3. How did a woman show Levi she was grateful?

- a) She sent him a thank-you card.
- b) She gave him flowers.
- c) She took him out for a nice lunch.

4. How does Levi return lost property to people?

- a) He tells the train drivers to take care of it.
- b) His coworker puts it in boxes and sends it to the people.
- c) People usually pick up their property at the lost and found office.

5. What gets lost most on trains?

- a) phones
- b) purses
- c) wild animals
