COLLECTIVE NOUNS

The children raced down the bunch of stairs. They were eager to see the troupe of monkeys at the zoo. The standard four pupils were heading out on their field trip. A line of maxis waited for them to board. Each group of students lined up quietly and waited excitedly. At the zoo, a litter of lions roared loudly at the sight of the students. Everyone laughed when a pack of geese chased after Timmy and Betty. They had jumped over a stack of bushes to get away from the geese and landed in a pond with a horde of trout.
