

Skating to work

Would you like to ice-skate to work in winter? People who live in the city of Edmonton in Canada might soon be able to do just that.

The winters in Edmonton are very cold and long. The average temperature is -12 C. Because winters are difficult, people do nearly everything indoors. They often become lazy and feel depressed during the long winter months. The city is looking for ways to encourage people to go outside and to be active in the winter.
