

Look at the gaps in the sentences and decide if they need a Verb, an Adjective, an Adverb or a Noun.

1. I returned to the island after the earthquake. Nothing looked the same. In fact, the place was _____.

Verb	Adjective	Adverb	Noun
------	-----------	--------	------
2. While gold could be found, the area was _____ active. But then the mines closed down and people left the town.

Verb	Adjective	Adverb	Noun
------	-----------	--------	------
3. Luckily for the elephant, an _____ gamekeeper spotted the poachers and contacted the police who caught them.

Verb	Adjective	Adverb	Noun
------	-----------	--------	------
4. The architect came up with a wonderful _____ design for the new animal enclosure at the zoo.

Verb	Adjective	Adverb	Noun
------	-----------	--------	------
5. Surely something as important as the _____ of the wetlands should be supported by all the political parties.

Verb	Adjective	Adverb	Noun
------	-----------	--------	------
6. As the wild animal struggled to free itself, the hunter's net _____ even more around it.

Verb	Adjective	Adverb	Noun
------	-----------	--------	------
7. The catastrophic oil spill near the coast of Florida received extensive _____ on TV and in the newspapers.

Verb	Adjective	Adverb	Noun
------	-----------	--------	------
8. We would like to install solar panels on our roof, but the problem is _____ - they're just too expensive.

Verb	Adjective	Adverb	Noun
------	-----------	--------	------