She 11. _____ (think) he is a fool but warns him that a man in a brown bowler hat (named Linthorn) is on the train, and 12. _____ (search) for him. To escape, Enola and Tewkesbury jump off the train together and flee to London, where they part ways. Disguised as a proper Victorian lady, she 13. _____ (continue) to trace her mother and leaves cryptic messages in the newspaper personal advertisements for Eudoria 14. _____ (find). As Enola continues to search for her mother, Linthorn 15. _____ (try) to kill her, but she manages to set off explosives and escape. She decides that instead of continuing to search for her mother, she must first find Tewkesbury again to save him, because he can't defend himself. Mycroft 16. _____ (employ) Inspector Lestrade of Scotland Yard to track Enola down. Meanwhile, Enola warns Tewkesbury and helps him escape but she 17. _____ (catch) by Lestrade, and Mycroft 18. _____ (imprison) her in Miss Harrison's finishing school. Sherlock visits her and admits he is impressed by her detective work. Tewkesbury 19. _____ (sneak) into the school hidden in a wicker basket, and they escape together, stealing Miss Harrison's motor car. They reach a fork in the road and, rather than 20. _____ (return) to London, Enola decides they must go to Tewkesbury's home and face his uncle, who she has deduced 21. _____ (try) to kill him. The house is seemingly deserted, and Linthorn attempts to shoot them, but they manage to overcome him. Tewkesbury's grandmother is revealed as the real villain; she 22. _____ his father _____ (kill) and attempted to kill Tewkesbury, not wanting him to take his father's place in the House of Lords and vote for the Reform Bill, which he supports but his grandmother opposes. Sherlock arrives at Scotland Yard, and Lestrade asks him two questions: firstly how he 23. _____

(manage) to solve the case, and secondly how his sister solved it first. Enola deciphers a message she finds in the newspaper but deduces it 24. _____ (send) not by her mother but by Sherlock. At the meeting point, Sherlock and Mycroft eventually give up, while Enola, 25. _____ (disguise) as a newsboy, watches. Enola leaves an old toy for Sherlock to find, and despite knowing Enola was there, he chooses not 26. _____ (look) for her. When she returns to her lodgings, she finds her mother waiting. They embrace, and Eudoria explains why she 27. _____ (have) to leave, and why she must leave again, but she expresses how impressed she is at what Enola 28. _____ (become). Enola has found her freedom and her purpose—she is a lady detective and a finder of lost souls.
