- A. Most of Russia has a continental climate, with long, cold winters and brief summers. There is a wide range of summer and winter temperatures. A record low temperature of -71°C was registered in 1974 at the northeast Siberian village of Oymyakon, which is the lowest temperature ever recorded anywhere in the world for an inhabited region.
- B. We usually don't think about ice too much, unless there's none in the freezer and all we have to drink is a warm can of Coke. Before the invention of artificial refrigeration in the early 1900s, ice was the only way to keep things cool and food from spoiling. While there were ice-making machines in use in the mid- to late-1800's, they were mostly for commercial use.
- C. Traditionally, Russian clothing had two main colours - the natural colour of the material -white, and red. "Red" is the same word that was used in the old days to call everything beautiful. That is, red elements in clothing became beautiful elements. Interaction with nature led to the appearance of very interesting new colours in Russian clothing: yellow, gold, blue and many others.
- D. Polar bears live along shores and on sea ice in the icy cold Arctic. When sea ice forms over the ocean in cold weather, many polar bears head out onto the ice to hunt seals. Male polar bears may grow 10 feet tall and weigh over 1400 pounds. Females reach seven feet and weigh more than 650 pounds. In the wild polar bears live up to age 25.
- E. Stroganina is a raw frozen fish delicacy from Yakutia, in northern Russia. It is a winter dish, consisting of long, thin slices of frozen Arctic river fish such as whitefish, white salmon or sturgeon. It is sometimes decorated with wild red berries and greens. Some of the best stroganina is made of freshly caught fish, frozen once. The taste, according to Yakutians, is soft, fresh and frosty.

Задание 19. (in class)

Imagine that you are preparing a project with your friend. You have found some interesting material or the presentation and you want to read this text to your friend.

You have 1.5 minutes to read the text silently, then be ready to read it out aloud.

You will not have more than 1.5 minutes to read it.

How many nostrils do you have? Four. Two you can see, two you can't. This discovery came from observing how fish breathe. Fish get their oxygen from water. Most of them have two pairs of nostrils, a forward-facing set for letting water in and a pair of «exhaust pipes» for letting it out again. The question is, if humans evolved from fishes, where did the other pair of nostrils go. The answer is that they migrated back inside the head to become internal. To do this they somehow had to work their way back through the teeth.

Similar gaps between the teeth can also be seen at an early stage of the human birth. When they fail to join up, the result is a cleft palate. So, one ancient fish explains two ancient human mysteries. The most recent research on noses, incidentally, shows that we use each of our two external nostrils to detect different smells.
