- A Thousands of Berliners came to the Wall to celebrate.
- B Millions of East Germans began to cross from East to West Berlin.
- C Today Germany is one country.
- D The Wall existed for almost thirty years.

1 _____ However, after the Second World War it was divided into two different countries, West Germany and East Germany. West Germany was part of the Western bloc and East Germany belonged to the Soviet or Communist bloc. Berlin, the old capital, was in a difficult situation. Geographically, it was in the middle of East Germany, but politically half of the city, the west side, belonged to West Germany.

2 _____ They wanted to have a better quality of life in the West. The East German government was not happy about this situation, so in 1961 they built a wall in the middle of the city, the notorious Berlin Wall. The real intention of the Wall was clear: to stop people emigrating to the West. Officially, however, it was called an 'Anti-Fascist Protection Barrier'.

3 _____ During that time, around 5,000 East Germans tried to cross it illegally, and around 200 lost their lives. Then in 1989, the Soviet Union began to lose its influence in Eastern Europe. On 9th November 1989, the East German government made the historic announcement that the Wall was open.

4 _____ People from all around the world saw the scenes on television. This was one of the iconic moments in the history of the twentieth century.
