In 1945 The United Nations was established as declared by fifty-one (51) nation-states to identify some of its founding members through the given flags.