

Talking about your family

Fill the gaps with a phrase from the box.

he met my mum	older than me	was divorced	I was really little married an American	sent it to me.	on skype a lot	been to visit him twice
half-brother	to someone else	you want to play?	really nice

Jack: Hi Sam. How's it going?

Sam: Good. How are you?

Jack: Fine, thanks. Hey, is that the new version of Game of Kings?

Sam: Yeah, do _____

It's great!

Jack: Oh! You can't buy that here!

Where did you get it?

Sam: From my brother.

He _____

Jack: What? Charlie?

Sam: No, my other brother, Rob. ...

Well, he's my _____

Jack: But ... I don't get it ...

Sam: He's my dad's son.

My dad went to New York to study and _____.

Jack: Your mum's American?!

Sam: No, no, not my mum ...

before _____.

Jack: Ah, OK, I get it now. Wow, I didn't know that! So, how old is your half-brother?

Sam: Er, he's five years _____, so he's twenty-three.

Jack: Cool. And do you see him often?

Sam: Not very often. I've _____

Well, three times, but the first time I don't remember because _____. But we speak _____.

Jack: And have you met Rob's mum?

Sam: Yeah. She's _____.

She's from Mexico originally. She's married _____ now.

Jack: And what does your mum think?

Sam: Er, she's fine about it! She knew my dad _____ and had a son.

Jack: Huh ... OK.

Sam: OK, enough questions. Do you want to play Game of Kings or what?

Jack: Yeah, cool.