

Seven Nation Army

The White Stripes

FILL IN WITH: mind – night – eyes – seven - forget

I'm going to fight them off

A _____ nation army couldn't hold me back

They're gonna rip it off

Taking their time right behind my back

And I'm talking to myself at _____

Because I can't _____

Back and forth through my _____

Behind a cigarette

And the message coming from my _____

Says: Leave it alone

Don't want to hear / heal about it

Every single one's got a story to say / tell

Everyone knows about it

From the Queen of England to the hounds of hell

And if I catch it coming back / bad my way

I'm gonna serve it to you

And that ain't what you want to hear / help

But that's what I'll go / do

And the feeling coming from my bows / bones

Says: Find a home

I'm going to Washington / Wichita

Far from this opera everyone / forevermore

I'm gonna work the straw / star

Make the sweat drip out of every pore

And I'm bleeding, and I'm bleeding

And I'm bleeding right before the world / Lord
All the words are gonna bleed from me
And I will think no more

And the stains coming from my blood
Tell me: Go back home / hole

The White Stripes were an American rock duo formed in Detroit, Michigan in 1997. The group consisted of Jack White (songwriter, vocals, guitar, piano, and mandolin) and his one-time wife Meg White (drums and vocals). After releasing several singles and three albums within the Detroit music scene, The White Stripes rose to prominence in 2002 as part of the garage rock revival scene. Their successful and critically acclaimed albums White Blood Cells and Elephant drew attention from a large variety of media outlets. Their music featured a melding of garage rock and blues influences. The single "Seven Nation Army" became one of their most recognizable songs. They divorced. The band recorded two more albums and dissolved in 2011.
