Dear Friend:

I'm writing to you because I've been having some terrible days. First, I was downloading a new comedy series I like and my computer got damaged. I can't have access to my last documents and I had to send this week's homework to my teacher this morning. I'm really worried because that homework determines if we pass the subject or not. To make things worse, I had a terrible argument with my parents yesterday. I got really angry with my sister because she takes my things without permission. They tell me I have to be good and patient with her because she's a child but she broke a present that was important for me and I got furious. I yelled at my parents and they told me that I wouldn't go out for a week. But that's not all! Daniel, the boy who lives 50 km far from here and I really like will be visiting his cousin this weekend. We have been chatting a lot and I think I have chances with him!! I'm so enthusiastic and excited about it! But I need an excuse to go out this weekend and I don't think my parents will give me permission. Perhaps I can pretend to be asleep and jump out of the window to meet Daniel. I don't know what to do!!! Can you help me with some advice? I'd really appreciate it!
