Task B

You've received a letter from your English friend Martha. Here is the last part of it:

> Well, lately I have been getting told that I "need to know what I want to be when I grow up". I haven't got a clue. You know I like being outside, animals, drawing, photography, writing stories and poetry, I do enjoy maths, I ride horses – I'd like to have one, as a matter of fact, so any job you think of had better pay well, ha ha. Some things that I do not enjoy are office work, going from day to day with no excitement - and I don't want a job that will take me 10 years after leaving secondary school just to learn! Do you have any good ideas? Your help would be greatly appreciated!!!
> Thanks

Write a letter of 100-120 words to Martha in which you give her some advice, including the following:

- Recommend one job that you think might suit her.
- Describe the advantages and possible disadvantages of this job.
- Say if you personally would be interested in this job and why.

Begin your letter like this:

Dear Martha,
