This is the written story

A year ago I decided to travel abroad. My destination was London. I went to the airport two hours before my flight. While waiting at the departure lounge I began to talk with a man who was seated next to me. He was taller than me and slimmer. He had a long moustache and thick grey sideburns, like Carlos Menem. His eyes were downturned. And his skin was fair. He also had a hooked and ugly nose. The old man seemed to be upset (angry) and agitated because he had been waiting for the plane which had a 5 hours delay. He was supposed to travel to Spain for a business trip. But after a few minutes the angry man smiled at a curvaceous woman who was coming towards him. I thought that the beautiful woman might be his daughter or something like that. Because she was younger than him. She seemed to be in her thirties. Well, it turned out (resulto ser) to be his third wife.
