

Coordinating Conjunctions

Coordinating Conjunctions connect words, phrases, and clauses.

And, but, for, nor, or, so, & yet-these are seven coordinating conjunctions.

*To remember all seven, think of the acronyms: FANBOYS, YAFNOBS.

Directions: Complete each sentence below with the correct coordinating conjunction.

1. The bowl of homemade chicken noodle soup is hot _____ scrumptious.
2. Tabby, my cat, loves taking a bath, _____ he hates getting his claws trimmed.
3. They picky toddler refuses to eat the egg roll, _____ will he touch the bowl of fruity yogurt.
4. Sabrina hates playing basketball, _____ she can spend hours watching basketball games.
5. Vivian thought she had a good chance of winning the chess tournament, _____ she has been undefeated in all her games.
6. Sam is not the only genius in mathematics in her family, _____ are her day and older brother Drew.
7. I have neither finished the amphibians report, _____ have I started working on my science presentation.

8. The neighbors complained about the loud music after 10:00 p.m., _____ they continued with the same behavior every night.
9. James won the States table tennis championship, _____ that surprised no one who knew him.
10. Aaron must comply to the classroom rules, _____ he will have to face the consequences.
11. It was challenging to follow the no sugar diet, _____ out of frustration, I went to the bakery and ate six coconut cream cupcakes.