There's no place like home

by Jack Fleming

You don't really think about your home until you have to move somewhere else, or at least I never thought about my home in England until then. But everything changed when Dad came home from work a couple of months ago to tell us more about his new job. 'So what?' I thought to myself. And then he said: 'The new job is in Berlin – in Germany'.

And now, two months later, here we are, living in an apartment close to Berlin city centre. I'm going to an international school because I don't speak German and this is an important year for me because I have to pass some big exams at the end. Our lessons are all in English but because Dad's here for the next five years, I must learn German!

Like the language, everything around me is still very new. But I like being in the city because it's more interesting than being in a small place. It's easy to get around because the public transport is brilliant and it's cheaper than back home. There are so many amazing things to see and do.

Life is exciting, but I miss my friends back home. We skype and email and I keep in touch with everyone on Facebook but it's not like being together. I hope that I can go back home in the holidays and maybe some of my friends can come and visit too.

What else do I miss? Well, I miss my old room and I know Mum misses the garden because she liked to grow lots of vegetables but I don't think Dad misses anything and my sister is never in so I don't know what she misses!

3. READ THE TEXT.

My name's Megan. Last month I was at the beach with Peter, Andy and Lucy. Peter was swimming and I was sunbathing. Andy and Lucy were buying an ice cream in a café.

Suddenly we heard a very loud noise. We looked up and we saw this object in the sky. It was very long and it was a sort of green colour. It was moving very slowly.

Peter ran out of the sea. We were looking at the object when it suddenly changed to red. Andy and Lucy came and stood next to us. We were all looking at it. The object changed to blue and it started to move very fast. In a few seconds it was invisible.

We talked to a lot of people on the beach, but they didn't have any explanation.

A) PUT THE EVENTS IN THE CORRECT ORDER.

- ☐ She heard a very loud noise.
- ☐ The object changed to blue.
- ☐ The object disappeared.
- ☐ She saw a long object in the sky.
- ☒ Megan was sunbathing.
- ☐ The object changed to red.

B) ANSWER THE QUESTIONS.

- A) Where were Megan and her friends last month?
- B) What was Megan doing?
- C) Why did they look up?
- D) What were they doing when the object changed to red?
- E) What happened at the end?

Hi! My name's Anna, and I want to tell you about my family holidays. Every summer, and sometimes in the winter, I go with my parents and two brothers to a holiday resort in the south of our country, near the sea and not very far from the mountains. The resort is very popular because it has beautiful landscapes, and there's usually a lot to do. And on the days when it's a bit rainy, we're happy to just sit and read or listen to music. It's the perfect place to go on holiday.

There are many interesting places to visit in the town there. For anyone in your family that likes history, there are a lot of museums and ancient houses. When the weather is good, you can walk along the streets and enjoy the outdoor cafés. And you can buy anything you want at the new shopping centre – it's enormous!

We usually stay in a hotel, but there are good hostels there, too, or cabins in the forest outside the town.

In the winter, there are many places where you can go skiing, and in the summer there are excellent places to go cycling. I'm sure that anyone who goes there will have a brilliant holiday!

Are the sentences True (T) or False (F)?
