She speaks a lot of languages.

Mary is a little girl but she has a brilliant brain. She actually speaks seven languages. One day, she saw publicity in which the winner has to speak more than 5 languages to win. So, the next day she went to the local in which where develop the competition in order to win that prize. The next morning the secretary ask her how many languages does she speak? She said I can speak many languages like Korea, French, German, Italian, Portuguese, Chinese and, finally Russian. The secretary said that is really good but she could not win anything because she has to know Spanish and English. She was a little bit upset and starting to ask why? The secretary said that there are the rules that she has to follow and she cannot help me with. Then, Mary said to her this is not fair I am good at speaking languages, I come here because it said that the competitor needs to now five languages it did not mention which languages. The secretary starts to call her boss, she explained the facts and then she said it is true you are correct so here you have your prize, congratulations.
