LET'S DISCUSS...

a. How to get the job? Your tips.

b. Divide these tips on how to get the job into two categories and ground your choice.

	😊 GOOD TIPS	😞 BAD TIPS

1. You make a list of questions you want to ask the interviewer.

2. You meditate for half an hour before you leave for a job interview.

3. You wear very flattering clothes for the job interview and feel very uncomfortable.

4. Before sending off your letter of application, you show it to a few friends for their comments.

5. You decide to wear the most comfortable clothes for your job interview though they are not smart.

6. You find out which newspaper usually advertises vacancies that you are looking for, and study columns regularly.

7. You make it clear for a prospective employer that a number of other interviews are lined up

8. You ask your friends to practice with you the interview before the big day arrives.

9. As you sit down you tell the interviewer that you are really nervous.

10. When the interviewer asks you "What job would you like to be doing in ten years' time?", your answer is "Your job".

11. You phone your local employment office to see if they have a suitable vacancy for you.

12. You send unsolicited letters of application to companies you are interested in working for.

13. During the interview, you avoid looking into the interviewer's eyes.

14. You go to the job interview with some notes of how you will develop the company's core products and customer service.

15. You don't like the questions asked by the interviewer and take the chance to talk about it.

LET'S DISCUSS...

WHAT QUESTIONS WOULD YOU ASK THE CANDIDATES ON THESE POSITIONS?

- Marketing manager in a car production company
- Call center employee in a bank
- Sales representative in a luxury perfume shop

For example: Do you have any working experience in the automotive industry?

What skills should a good employee have to work in a call center?
