

THE LAST REGRET

Once upon a time there was a carpenter who built beautiful houses. When he got old, he said "my master, I'm tired, I have gotten old, and I have no strength. If you allow me, I want to quit my job and spend the rest of my life with my wife, children and grandchildren."

Choose the correct answer and write A or B in the box.

What was the main reason for carpenter's decision about quitting his job?

- A) He wanted to quit his job because he was going to have grandchildren soon.
- B) He wanted to quit his job because he wasn't young and strong enough to work.

Correct Answer is _____

His boss was upset about him leaving his job.
-You did a really good job and I was very pleased with your work. If you want to quit, you know what is best. I have one last request from you. I want you to build a house for me one last time and then you can quit your job. This house will be your last work and a reminder of you.

Choose the correct answer and write A or B in the box

How did the boss feel when he heard carpenter's decision about leaving the work?

- A) The boss felt very unhappy.
- B) The boss felt satisfied with carpenter's work.

Correct Answer is _____

The carpenter accepted this offer. He started to work immediately. He said "I will leave my job anyway, I won't take another work." so he didn't care about this job. He chose low quality materials. He completed the work by doing the foundation, walls and other detailed work with inferior craftsmanship.

Write T for true sentences and F for false sentences in the box.

1. The carpenter didn't start constructing the new house. _____
2. The carpenter didn't use high quality goods for building the house. _____
3. The carpenter did his best to produce exquisite craftsmanship. _____

The boss came to see the house. He gave the key to the carpenter. "Take this key. This house is your house" he said. The carpenter got surprised when he heard these unexpected words. He was shocked. He thought on his own:
-Oh, how thoughtless I am! "If I had known this house would be mine, would I have ever made a house like this?" he said.
