Mystery in the Garden

A week ago, I was writing a story in the garden when I suddenly saw a black cat jumping off the garden tree. It looked strange: it had no tail and its eyes were enormous. Then, something weird happened. The cat's back legs and half of its body disappeared. I mean, they weren't black anymore: they became transparent! I ran for my camera but when I came back only its big eyes were there. Two enormous eyes, black and yellow, suspended in the air. They looked at me fixedly for some minutes and then, very slowly, they also started to disappear. I heard meows and I saw the plants moving but the cat was invisible. And then I felt something strange in my feet and legs. Soon I realised my body was not visible any more ... Please, if you read this story, come and look for me, I'm just sitting here, waiting for you, in the garden.
