

The 7 most common auxiliary and modal verbs

1. To be- was/were –been (ser/estar)
2. To have- had –had haber (yo he, tu has, él ha...)
3. To have got .....(tener)
4. Can - could - xxx (poder)
5. must - xxx – xxx (deber)
6. will – (para formar el futuro)
7. would – (para formar el condicional)

A) When the verb is auxiliary/modal (one of the 7 listed above), we change the order of the subject and the 1st verb to ask a question.

-He is Sam.

-Is he Sam?

-He is watching TV.

-Is he watching TV?

-He can go.

-can he go?

-He will watch TV.

-will he watch TV?

B) When the verb is NOT an auxiliary/modal (one of the 7 listed above); we add “do/does/did” at the beginning of the question (before the subject).

- Do: when the question is in the present (except for he, she, it)
- Does: when the question is in the present of he, she, it.
- Did: when the question is in the past tense (for all the subjects, i.e., I, you, he, she, etc)

Important: When using “does”; the “s” existing in the affirmative verb disappears. When using “did” the verb doesn’t show up in the past form (but in the 1st column).

i.e.,

They work in Madrid.

Do they work in Madrid?

Madrid?

She works in Madrid.

Does she work in

They worked in Madrid.

Did they work in Madrid?
