A

When he was young, he worked as a shop assistant in a clothes store, but he always dreamed of having his own business. In 1963 he started a small company which made women's pyjamas. In 1975, at the age of 40, he opened his first clothes shop in La Coruña and named it Zara. Now you can find over 600 Zara shops all over the world, from New York to Moscow or Singapore. So why is Zara so successful?

B

With other high-street retailers, you run the risk of buying something and seeing somebody wearing the same thing, and that spoils the effect. With Zara, you have to get there as soon as possible. A new line tends to sell out two days later, so you have a real chance of being a little bit exclusive. So, if you've seen a new jacket or skirt you like in a Zara store, hurry up and buy it, because it won't be there for long.

C

Zara is one of the fastest-growing chains in the world. The person behind Zara is Amancio Ortega. He is Spain's richest man, and the founder and president of the chain. He keeps a very low profile and, although he is a multi-millionaire, he doesn't look like one –he refuses to wear suits or ties and prefers to dress in jeans and a shirt.

D

The main reason is that Zara reacts incredibly to the latest designer fashions and produces clothes which are fashionable but inexpensive. What sets Zara apart from the rest of the fashion retailers is that it has adopted a fully-integrated business model which covers design, just-in-time production, marketing and sales.
