My sister Clara was always getting into trouble when she was younger. She could never sit still at school and she was always talking in class. Her teacher, Mr Franks, thought she was a (1).....girl so my mum had to go to the school several times to talk OBEDIENT about her behaviour. Clara behaved well at home so mum was (2).....to find ANXIETY out what was going on. In the first meeting, the teacher explained that Clara hardly ever paid attention to his instructions and that it was becoming (3).....to control her. POSSIBLE

I think this surprised my mum because Clara had never been like this with her. She had always been a (4).....girl who was interested in the world around her. At home, CURIOSITY you could always have a good conversation with her.

For the next few weeks, my mum and Mr Franks paid special attention to Clara's (5)..... BEHAVE and they soon realised that she was getting bored at school. Clara was good at maths and reading, and the things she was studying at school were too easy for her. She would often finish exercises before her classmates and she would become (6)..... waiting for the others to finish. At first, my mum thought the PATIENCE (7).....solution would be to give her more work to do. However, Clara found LOGIC it difficult to work alone and Mr Franks couldn't spend all his time with her because the other children needed his help as well. In the end, they took the (8).....to DECISIVE move her into the next year at school and things changed (9)..... IMMEDIATE

Clara became much more interested and her new teacher said she was a very (10)..... PLEASURE student to have in class.
