2. Where do you live?

It is learned that people around the world live in shelters which are houses or dwellings that are not the same. Houses are not the same around the world, because of differences in the following items: sizes, shapes, and colors; hot and cold regions; areas with little or more water; availability or choices of buildings materials; and populations and activities of people in farms and cities.

How about you? Where do you live? What does your house look like?
