Passage

Directions: Read the following passage and answer the questions by choosing the best choice (1), (2), (3), or (4).

For many years people believed that the cleverest animals after man were chimpanzees. Now, however, there is proof that dolphins may be even cleverer than these big apes.

Although a dolphin lives in the sea, it is not a fish. It is a mammal. It is in many ways, therefore, like a human being.

Dolphins have a simple language. They are able to talk to one another. It may be possible for man to learn how to talk to dolphins. But this will not be easy because dolphins cannot hear the kind of sounds man can make. If man wants to talk to dolphins, therefore, he will have to make a third language which both he and the dolphins can understand.

Dolphins are also very friendly towards man. They often follow ships. There are many stories of dolphins guiding ships through difficult and dangerous waters.

Passage

Directions: Read the following passage and answer the questions by choosing the best choice (1), (2), (3), or (4).

Scientists around the world study endangered animals. They try to guess how many animals are left in the wild. Sometimes the number of animals increases as people do things to try to help them. Sometimes the number of animals decreases. Today there are more people on Earth than there ever have been before. People need places to live. They need food. They turn forests into farmland. They are polluting air and water. New roads and cities take land away from animals. People hunt some animals for their fur, tusks, horns or meat.

Many animals today are at risk of becoming extinct. When an animal is extinct there will never be any of them on Earth. Some animals may be saved if we act fast to help them.

The Grand Cayman blue iguana lives on just one island in the Caribbean Sea. It was thought only 5-15 of them were left in the world. These iguanas have been hunted by people for food. Many are run over by cars. Wild dogs destroy their nests.

With our help, maybe these endangered animals can be saved from extinction. The first step is leaning about these animals. We must know what they eat and how they live. Then we can make a plan to help them.

Passage

Directions: Read the following passage and answer the questions by choosing the best choice (1), (2), (3), or (4).

Plants and trees are considered to be the rescuers of the nature. If we don't save them, our next generation will have to pay for it. Just take care of them and they'll take care of you. A study shows that having trees in your neighborhood will keep you away from many mental and physical diseases. They have a very stimulating impact.

Global warming has become the hot topic of the day. Earth's temperature is rising day by day which is triggering many issues regarding health, nature conservation and many others. One of the major reasons for the issue is cutting down the trees. Trees absorb dangerous ultraviolet rays and greenhouse gasses and by acting as natural air conditioners and a source of rain, they are one of the most important controllers of global warming.

So, "Save trees now, they will save you in the future."
