READING

Read the text. Write FF for Fear Factor, S for Survivor, FB for Fort Boyard under the pictures.

EXTREME TV programmes

On Fear Factor contestants can win a lot of money. Many have tried but only a few have actually won. Over the years people have jumped off buildings, driven cars into swimming pools and even eaten live spiders.

Survivor started in the USA and now it's on TV all over the world. Since the first Survivor, contestants have stayed on exotic islands, lived in jungles and travelled to the Australian bush. On Survivor you must win dangerous games to get food. So, if you lose, you get hungry and life can become very difficult.

Fort Boyard is a castle in the sea off the south west coast of France. It's also the name of a TV show. Contestants go around the castle and take part in games to collect keys. Some of the games are very dangerous, and you may meet a tiger or two while you're going around the castle.
