

Adverbial Clauses

Clauses of Time

Clauses of time tell us when something happens.

Clauses of Place

Clauses of place tell us where something happens.

Clauses of Manner

Clauses of manner tell us how something happens.

Word expressions that introduce clauses of time are:

when, while, since, as soon as, before, the moment (that), until/till, after, by the time, whenever, as, as long as, etc.

Word expressions that introduce clauses of place are:

where, wherever, as far as, as near as, as high as, as low as, as long as, as close as, etc.

Word expressions that introduce clauses of manner are:

as if, as though, as, just as, exactly as, like, etc.

 Fill in the blanks with:

as near as

as high as wherever as far as where

- ✓ In this game, you should throw the ball you can to the other end of the field.
- ✓ They are looking for a house possible to their children's school.
- ✓ The good thing about having a laptop is that you can do your work you are.
- ✓ He will never tell us he hid the money.
- ✓ Little Anna has grown tall and she can now reach the top shelf.

Match the items to make correct sentences.

the children were asleep.

before she left the house.

she takes her daughter

as if they were very excited.

after he finished school.

whenever they come for a visit.

until the lesson finishes.

while he's watching TV.

He joined the army

He doesn't like anyone talking to him

By the time we got back,

She turned off the lights

They acted

You can't leave the room

They bring us flowers

Wherever Julie goes,

Chose the correct word:

Where/Wherever he goes on holiday, he buys many souvenirs.

When/By the time I heard I was the winner of the competition, I couldn't believe my luck.

It looked like/as it was going to rain, so Ann took an umbrella.

John promised to email me his new address as soon as/while he moved to London

I promise to have the report ready by the time/by you leave.

Until/while you're making a salad, I'll set the table.