

A 6x6 grid of squares. A red line starts at the top-left corner of the second row, first column, extends horizontally to the top-right corner of the second row, fifth column, and then turns vertically down to the bottom-right corner of the second row, fifth column. Thick black horizontal lines are placed below the first row, the third row, the fourth row, and the sixth row.

A 6x6 grid of squares. A red line starts at the top-left corner of the first square and extends horizontally to the right, ending at the top-right corner of the fifth square. A thick black horizontal line runs below the first row of squares. Another thick black horizontal line runs below the second row of squares. A third thick black horizontal line runs below the third row of squares. A fourth thick black horizontal line runs below the fourth row of squares. A fifth thick black horizontal line runs below the fifth row of squares.

A 6x6 grid of squares. A red line starts at the top-left corner of the second row, first column, extends horizontally to the top-right corner of the second row, fourth column, and then extends vertically down to the bottom-right corner of the second row, fourth column. Three thick black horizontal lines separate the grid into four 2x3 blocks: one between rows 2 and 3, one between rows 4 and 5, and one between rows 6 and 7.

A 6x6 grid of squares. A red line connects the top-left square to the top-right square. A thick black line connects the top-right square to the bottom-right square.