Dear Bagheera,

Yours faithfully,

In addition to this, the terrible drought has meant that there is shortage of food. We are finding it difficult to feed the pack as it is. Our hunting grounds are empty and Mowgli is starting to look very thin. Surely it would be better for him to live in the main village so he has enough to eat.

On the whole, it is clear that he must leave the jungle without delay. We will miss him but it is certainly best for him and the pack if he goes. It has been a pleasure to teach him the wolf ways for the past 10 years. I hope that he will come visit us soon. Hope to hear from you.

I hope you are doing well. I am writing to you, to urge you to come to the den and take Mowgli far away from the jungle. It is not safe for him to be with the pack. For this reason I felt best for Mowgli to go and live with the humans.

Firstly, it is clear that the terrifying beast Sher Khan has returned to our jungle. While he is free to prowl at our home land, it is clear that he is at an awful risk. I can feel the tension in the air and many of the wolves feel that if Mowgli is around, Sher Khan would attack the pack of wolves.
