THE CAPSULE HOTEL – JAPAN

Japanese capsule hotels have got very small rooms. They are ¹ not as comfortable as / not comfortable enough ordinary hotels because each capsule is ² big enough / as big as a bed and it's ³ large enough / too large for only one person. A person can sit up and read or lie down and watch TV. He or she can't stand up because the ceilings are ⁴ not high enough / not as high as for that. If the capsule is ⁵ not cold enough / as cold as, the visitor can turn on the air-conditioner. Many of these hotels aren't ⁶ far enough / too far from train stations, so they are convenient for travellers, and they are ⁷ too nice / nice enough for Japanese workers to stay in them. In any case, it's probably never ⁸ as late as / too late to find yourself a room for the night in a capsule hotel.
