"You Are Easily Influenced by The People Around you." What are your views?

Yes

No

NO! We are NOT influenced
by people around us.

There's plenty of research that shows that the habits of those around you can determine your behaviour — the spread of obesity and smoking was attributed social influence. However, not everyone became obese or started smoking which builds the case for free will. Conversely, some kids were able to escape violent and poor neighborhoods in spite of hanging out with so-called 'bad influences' — one positive role model was enough to inspire them to do better.

2. The need to belong may help us break social programming

If I am born in a bad neighbourhood or family, does that mean I am doomed?

Liz Murray, author of Homeless to Harvard, was abused and neglected by drug-addicted parents to the point she had to eat from trash bins. Luckily, her teacher inspired her to study. She broke the cycle of poverty and drug addiction!

BELONGINGNESS

is the human emotional need to be an accepted member of a group. Whether it is family, friends, co-workers, a religion, or something else, people tend to have an 'inherent' desire to belong.

Arnold Schwarzenegger was born in a poor, abusive Austrian home where he had to do push-ups to earn his breakfast. After being inspired by a photo of 'Reg' Parks, a body builder, Arnold transformed his life!

REJECTION

However, some children born in abusive backgrounds may feel rejected by their own kind. Since the need to belong is so great, they find belongingness outside their circle, helping them to break free from the social environment they are born into!

influenced
by people around us.
